Supporting

We believe that children belong at home and will do everything we can to keep families together. We work with parents, caregivers and other organizations to build a safe, strong community. Our goal is to make the lives of children, youth and families better through their interaction with us.

There are many reasons why families may need the help of Peel Children's Aid. Families can get stressed and overwhelmed with challenges. Different areas of stress can include poverty, unemployment, ill health, domestic violence, mental health issues, or caring for a child who has serious physical, emotional or developmental difficulties. We are here to answer questions or concerns about children and provide support to strengthen families.

Children do best when they are at home with their families. Our priority is to give parents the support they need to create a stable home. In only a small number of cases are children removed from a family.

If this has to happen, we first look for a family member or friend to care for the child while we work to strengthen a family's care giving skills and create a safe home.

Protecting

While one call from the community may not always result in Peel CAS involvement, different calls about the same children or family allow us to identify patterns of concern which may indicate the need for further assistance. This is why we encourage concerned members of the community to call and talk to us - no matter how minor or serious their concern for a child.

Caring

All of our work is guided by our commitment to diversity and anti-oppression and being respectful of others. Our job is to listen, respect and work with families to create strong and safe environments for children and youth.

When we work with families, we respect the experience of parents and caregivers and provide services that are culturally sensitive and available in many languages.

Together

It's a community responsibility to keep children safe. We receive many calls each year from concerned citizens, teachers, police, other agencies and health care professionals about children and families who may need help. When a family needs support, Peel CAS links them with a variety of community services. Together, Peel CAS and our partners work with children and families for a stronger, healthier community.
